Spring 2018 Lecture Series

The Early Intervention Training Institute (EITI) is pleased to announce its annual multidisciplinary lecture series. The series, now with an expanded curriculum, will address topics relevant to children with developmental disabilities and their families. The series is open to graduate students and professionals representing a variety of disciplines. Attendance options include one or more sessions. In the past, many agencies and institutions have sent different staff members to different sessions.

Objectives: At the conclusion of the course, the participant should be able to:

1. Identify characteristics of developmental disabilities and related conditions in children.
2. Demonstrate understanding of assessment and intervention approaches.
3. Discuss developmental concerns with families of children.
4. Provide or coordinate intervention services for children with disabilities and their families.

Target Audience: Pediatricians, audiologists, educators, nurses, occupational therapists, physical therapists, psychiatrists, psychologists, social workers, speech pathologists, administrators and staff of agencies serving children.

Content: See attached schedule of topics and speakers.
